WAS IT A DYNAMITE PLOT?

SOME NOT OBSERVED AT THE OPENING OF THE EXPOSITION.

The Rod Dynamite Cartridge in Their Possession and the Rood Officials Believe That Were Engaged in a Conspiracy to Destroy the Property of the Company—Held to July 12 by Commissioner Richardson.

What is believed to be an anarchistic plot to destroy property and perhaps human life, sometime in addition, and three men, having in possession of their persons, have been arrested and charged with complicity in a conspiracy to destroy the property of the Chicago, Harlington & Quincy Railroad.

The principal prisoners are two Polanders who have taken the strikers' places and have been assisting assiduously, while here, have been dressed and fed, and all acts of damage to property and persons that have occurred on the "Q" lines have been laid at their doors. These prisoners were unsuccessful in bringing the Harlington to terms, and no officials of the road, fearing that the men might go further, believed that the only safety was in enabling the strikers. The Federal authorities were employed to keep track of the men while guard was placed at midnight making. A large force of operatives was employed, and some of them have been working among the strikers. Among the five men reported there arrested Saturday" who had been active in trying to create a revolt in Galesburg. It was then discovered that dynamite was used to extract unnecessary shipping to Aurora within the last month.

The principal reasons were then set at large to make a move day or night without being under the watchful eye of an officer. It was impossible at first to locate the dynamite, but positive information was received that ammunition was the day shown for a great attack upon the company's property. The officers of the road are natural reasons for their success of information, but the got to secrets to them, and they admit that become a detail man to live up those who the tracks by means of dynamite cartridges that it betrayed the purpose of an attack upon the depot property and engine-house offices building here.

In the treatment of all anticipated Saturday Manager Stone has been so accommodating that it was natural to suppose that if the strikers, known as any time contemplated to make such attempt although as to kind and amount, nothing is would be directed against the one embracing the office. That idea was natural is fully believed by the property's officials, but they evenly closed it to the last before there was any opportunity to use the deadly agents of destruction with which the strikers were armed. The subsequent examination of the suspects was a great aid as many lines would be subsequently to letting the plot fail to evolve that the arrest was received upon yesterday, though, but the public danger not been so great the arrests would have been allowed to further prosecute themselves.

Superintendent of Motive Power C. W. Hinds-Howe and a warrant yesterday and Deputy Bureau Sheriffs proceeded with to Aurora to connect with Assistant Superintendent Mallory of Carpenter's force, who has been working on the case, and another arrested.

Their men were located and stationed in the 5:30 afternoon train for Chicago. Thomas Frederick and J. S. Brown, two lieutenants of the "Q," were seen to board the train to connect with a man not known to the officers. A fourth man was also looking for was not identified. The strange man, that proved to be John Q. Wilson, was a double and beside Frederick, while Brown sat just across the aisle.

THE ARREST.

The train had barely started when the officers leaped the men on the shoulders and made them prisoners. Brown protested vociferously, but no physical resistance was made, though the prisoners are of huge and powerful form. They had taken Brown's pistols, and under the two men lying Brown's pistols and Wilson upon the seat. Though the prisoners are of huge and powerful form. CHRISTENING A CHARITY.

THE NEW "HOSPITAL BOAT" AT LAKE GENEVA CHRISTENED.

Chicago People Participate in the Services That Give the Fresh Air Association a Magnificent Home—The Fine Equipment of Five Fat Babies, Inspired to Be Strengthen—How the Gift Appeared the Healthy Atmosphere and Good Food.

LAKE GENEVA, Wis., July 5.—[Special.]—The new hospital boat of the Lake Geneva Fresh Air Association was christened this afternoon and christened "Mother Rose." The boat building is situated on a high bank fronting the lake, about two miles west of Williams' Bay. It is the private property of four of the private citizens who have interested themselves in the matter, and is to be conducted in connection with the management of a home here for sick children from Chicago. The boat is a handsome craft, and is fitted up with all the conveniences for the comfort of the little patients. Two large rooms, with a capacity for ten cots each, are provided on the main deck, and there is also a cabin for the nurses. The latter is fitted up with a stove, and is provided with a table, and has a number of lockers for the storage of provisions. The boat is also provided with a life-boat and a row-boat. The boat is also provided with a life-boat and a row-boat.

The christening party left the Chicago & Northwestern depot at Geneva at 1:30 o'clock, and proceeded to the boat-house in carriages. The party was met at the boat-house by the nurses and the children, who had been brought down from the home in carriages. The children were all dressed in white, and carried flowers. They were then taken on board the boat, and the party proceeded to the lake. The boat was then taken out into the lake, and the party proceeded to the lake. The boat was then taken out into the lake, and the party proceeded to the lake.

THE NURSE AT THE HELM.

Right Little Miss Rose to Be Left Behind.

There was such a fluttering of yellow dresses here, such a waving of golden curls, that the Fourteenth Ward seemed almost converted into a meadow of buttercups. Every little girl was trying for the honor of steering the boat, and Miss Rose Williams' face was a picture of disappointment when she found that her little sister Ethel had been selected to be at the helm. Ethel, however, was equal to the occasion, and, with a look of determination on her face, she grasped the wheel and kept the boat straight on its course. Then, when the boat was turned over to the nurse, Ethel was still at the helm, and she was the last to leave it.

The nurse in charge of the boat is Miss Rose Williams, and she is assisted by Miss Rose Williams, and she is assisted by Miss Rose Williams, and she is assisted by Miss Rose Williams.

He Parties Confessed the Only Case and Paid the Fine.

Among the cases recently decided by Judge Hodges was that of Wilson Jones et al. vs. Andrew D. Parker et al., in which a suit for alleged infringement of patent in the manufacture of plastic coverings. The case is remarkable from the fact that the defendant conducted his own case, and, although a lawyer, did not employ counsel. The case of the party was called for trial on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Court of Common Pleas, and the jury was empaneled and sworn. The case was opened by the plaintiff's counsel, who stated that the plaintiff would prove that the defendant had infringed upon the patent of the plaintiff, and that the plaintiff was entitled to a verdict. The defendant then arose and said that he had no counsel, and that he would conduct his own case. He then proceeded to cross-examine the witnesses for the plaintiff, and to introduce his own witnesses. The case was then submitted to the jury, and the jury returned a verdict for the defendant. The plaintiff then moved for a new trial, which was denied. The plaintiff then moved for a new trial, which was denied. The plaintiff then moved for a new trial, which was denied.

A RUNNING MATE NAMED.

GEN. GRESHAM SAID TO HAVE PROMISED HIM THE SUPERINTENDENCY.

Some Gen. Robertson Planning to Be the Chief in the Convention and Avoid Voting in Consequence—The Boy's Grave in Indianola—Various Rumors Over His Opinion on the Candidates—Voting Gen. Harrison's Scenery.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 5.—[Special.]—The members of the Republican National Production Committee left here today. Some went to Chicago and others went direct to New York. They are to meet at the Murray Hill Hotel Saturday evening. Those that will go to Minneola, the residence of Levi P. Morton, serving to take to still less of some of the nominees for Vice-President, Gen. John C. New did not accompany the committee, though it is reported by his friends that he shortly received a confidential letter from Mr. Morton, further report is that Mr. Morton invited Gen. Gresham to visit him for a consultation in regard to running mates.

Later, Gen. Lew Wallace came down from Fort Wayne this evening. Gen. Wallace was nominated for Lieutenant-Governor on the Republican ticket in 1886. He waged a hard campaign, carrying the State on the head of the ticket by about 2,000 votes. The Democracy, who controlled the Senate, refused to reorganize for fight in the seat. He served two years and then, Gen. Harrison being his attorney. The personal argument was more than the Council had prepared to withstand. He lost a year from the profession and had to assume expenses which were far in excess of the salary of the office. Later, Gen. Robertson and his friends thought to fight contest him in the 2d district on the ticket this year. In view of the candidacy of Gen. Harrison this sentiment has been changed, and it is now the program to shelve Robertson, the Porter, Gen. Hovey and Gen. Gresham that Gen. Porter head the State ticket, as the Governor's interest is pretty large in all cases, the party organization as a whole is almost bound to support Porter to put a re-strong with the morning. Gen. Gresham's name mentioned in connection with Harrison's is the only topic of the gossips.

Gen. Robertson's friends say that if nominated for Governor he will be a candidate for Governor. They claim that he will be warmly supported by the friends of Gen. Porter, who are a strong factor of the Porter ranch for re-a speech in this city, that he was not and would not be a candidate for Governor. They claim that he was not in favor of the Governor's re-election, and that the reason he declined to be a candidate for Governor was that he was not in favor of Gen. Harrison's nomination for President. They claim that the report of Gen. Harrison's speech in Virginia shows that Gen. Harrison is not in favor of the re-election of the Governor, and claiming that he was not in favor of the nomination of Gen. Harrison for President. They claim

PRINCE, JULY 4, 188-

The money market was steady, and in the city showed considerable increase in strength. Sterling bills were unchanged. Commercial services were dull. Stocks were strong—The Chicago wheat market was active and stronger on fears of severe crop shortfalls in this country and Europe. Other products were firmer in sympathy, but quiet. The spot prices of wheat were over the top for the day. An exhaustive visit Tuesday week closed 7½ cents higher, last year ruled 10 cents higher, wheat 5 cents higher, corn ½ cent higher, oats ½ cent higher, rye and barley unchanged, and flaxseed weak, cost 1½ of the latter being quoted fully 2½ cents lower.

In the history of Chicago there was not been a Fourth of July in which there were fewer serious accidents arising from the use of firearms than that which has just passed. The result has been due largely to the vigilance of the police and the strenuous precautions made by Superintendent Bonfield to enforce the Mayor's proclamation. The officers could not keep watch on every idiot carrying a pistol or on all the reckless boys and backyards, but they did the best that was possible under all the circumstances. The result is to be seen in the paucity of accidents and the large number of pistols carrying shots locked up. Superintendent Bonfield and his men deserve commendation for their energetic administration.

There is reason to doubt that there is quite unanimity and much talk of bolting in both the Republican and Democratic parties in this county that such statements of the matter will become too frequent as the campaign opens and names for two tickets are put in nomination. Where 1,000 men now talk of bolting or sometimes there will not be 500 to make such declarations a month or two hence, and when November arrives there will not be a baker's dozen of the original Democrats still lacking one. The Republican party has no reason to fear any great bolt. Any Republican who can accept the platform will feel no personal objection to the candidates, and it cannot be asserted that even of Democrats of return stripe stalwart wings of the Republican platform will not receive less give the latter loyal support for the sake of paramount Republican principles.

The estimate of a daily of 9 per cent has not proved the incentive of cattle from Mexico into the United States. They have certainly been over over the border at the rate of about 1,000 head per week to find purchasers in California, and some have found their way to Kansas City. After paying the regular import duties, which are a great higher than those obtainable at home that the Atlanta Post and Herald says: "The measure is a matter considerable of little importance to the Mexican steppes." The effect of the importation will be to cheapen beef a little in Southern California, where it has been most dear, and slightly to increase the exports of beef goods from the Atlantic ports. The ranchmen, shippers, and packers will make a profit in handling these cattle.

The new law for the Panama Canal has proved a failure, and De Lesseps is flying himself in Bedlam streets, with little prospect of release. Doubtless the preliminary work on the Nicaragua Canal is progressing in an encouraging manner. The surveys have been completed, and the plans and charts will soon be made public. It is stated that the law of recession has been abolished from thirty miles to thirty miles, the length of the free navigation being 120 miles. Then for the cost of survey has been $150,000. There has been sent $200,000 to the Nicaraguan Government for concessions, and there remains in the treasury $200,000. It is suggested the financial scheme of the company will be made public as soon as the plans are in readiness. Thus far no obstacles have been found, and the prospects are of the most encouraging character.

A Kansas politician meeting was held at Fort Allen, Ind., a few evenings ago. The Democrats took advantage of the occasion to do a little of their peculiar fine work. They secured the services of a Chinese laundryman, and, having made his stock, they proceeded him to illustrate his loyalty and zeal of Democrats and hatred for Harrison by the Republican power to promotion to the place of starving. The object was to secure the backing of the workingmen to Harrison on the supposed friend of the Chinese. It was a characteristically campaign. In wisdom and worthy of the talents who sent that friend of free-workmen and liberty, Senator Voorhis, to the United States Senate, and who consigned to "Dave" Cox a local trader. Even the organs of the Cleveland party are disgusted at the management. The New York Times says of it: "Indiana politics has long been notorious for depravity, but we never with the Indianapolis Journal that a more revolting trick has ever been played, even in that State, than the one which the Democrats instituted at Fort Allen."

Mr. Elaine Grace, the leader of the Maine Prohibitionists, is quoted in the Democratic papers, whose candidates he is also supporting, as saying that "the most absurd thing in the Republican Convention was the unobserved plank adopted at the close." Why be astonished? The plank is one that declares in favor of "all wise and well directed efforts for the protection of home labor and industry"—such, for instance, as high taxation of the luxury trade and land system. That duties are by three-cents under free trade is not practical science. They want to "reclaim the tax fund for the purpose of remunerative use." Those words in part the dispute with Dan Lee and the Eastern Prohibitionists started could the slight sense of preciousness and consistency during the Chicago Convention. LONDON, July 5.—[Dispatch to THE TRIBUNE.]—O'Donnell's libel action, which was brought in a close today by the jury giving a verdict for the defendants, promises to be most sensational, but in fact all interest even in this trial has centered in the evidence of Richard Pigott, and his examination, which is to be brought into the case. The Times had made great preparations to bring into court over 100 witnesses to bolster up its charges made in the publication of "Parnellism and Crime," but when O'Donnell declined to go into the witness-box all possibility of the case being such a wide issue was ended, O'Donnell and the case was brought with the consent of its sensational, but Parnell has never taken any interest in the case. The Times was not surprising, as the line of O'Donnell was at least sensible and interesting.

Mr. O'Donnell's position that the accident in bringing action against the Times during a general election was a fortunate one, as Mr. Parnell will be in no position to the House of Commons tomorrow and will make a personal explanation on the subject.

Mr. Lyon has sent the following dispatch to Mr. Labouchere concerning the Times' libel case: "The action intended by the Times was not to injure Parnell, but to injure the Irish cause. The Times' case
